

HOMELESS
GARDEN
PROJECT

2018
annual report

2018 milestone

“The garden is a context where an exchange can happen between homeless individuals producing healthy organic food for sale and contributing to the community, and the community supporting, volunteering and keeping viable the opportunities for others.

The garden teaches us capability and compassion.”

—Lynne (Basehore) Cooper, Founding Project Director of the Homeless Garden Project

Since 1990, we've been producing our crops on temporary land.

In 2018 we made healthy progress toward our permanent site at Pogonip. This opens the way for us all to create so much more impact!

letter from executive director

I am honored to share with you an overview of what was accomplished in 2018 in Homeless Garden Project's programs, farm and enterprises.

Together, we accomplished so much towards our strategic goal of building Pogonip Farm—our permanent farm site—and setting the stage to grow the impact of our programs, while also doing our everyday work of transforming lives at our current farm. In the following pages, you'll see the values and principles that are the heartbeat of our success, and the numbers/measures that reflect achievements at the farm, store, in our transitional employment program and in our community education and volunteer program.

You'll hear from trainees about what the Project means to them, and you'll see that with your help, trainees grew and provided organic food to our most vulnerable neighbors via ten nonprofit partners. In the last year, we made strides toward increasing earned income in order to eventually triple the number of people we serve in our transitional employment program. We achieved this while staying true to our roots—as Lynne said on page 2, "The garden is a context where an exchange can happen."

I'm deeply honored and grateful to partner with you in this work,

Darrie Mangione

belong

“Being engaged in some way for the good of the community, whatever that community, is a factor in a meaningful life. We long to belong, and belonging and caring anchors our sense of place in the universe.”

—Patricia Churchland

community

Homeless Garden Project is a dynamic community where we all belong.

the farm as hub

The farm serves our mission in so many ways:

It grows our organic produce. It provides the core work and training activities of our Transitional Employment Program. It supplies raw materials for our Value-added Enterprise. And it brings people together for positive, purposeful and productive outcomes.

In 2018 Homeless Garden Project had 30,000

lbs of Organic Produce Harvested

5970

Farm Meals Served

56

CSA Members

11

Restaurant Partners Purchased Produce from the Garden

10

Nonprofit Agencies Provided with Food Shares

the store

Our trainees created:

500

baking mixes

600

hand-dipped beeswax candles

10

Value-added Enterprise
product lines, sold in 5
New Leaf Community
market stores

150

wreaths

600

salves

We sold:

15,664

items

And completed:

6968

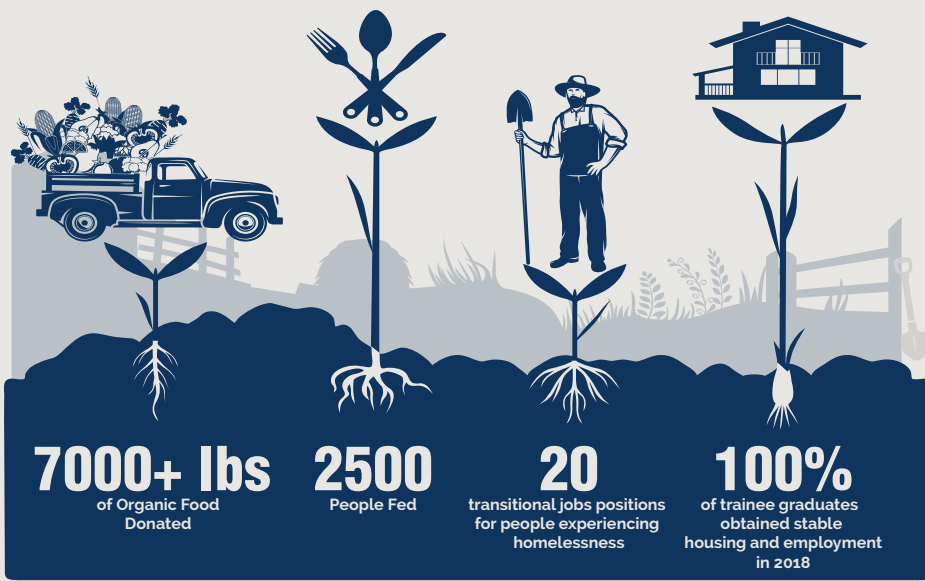

retail transactions

Trainees work with the raw materials grown on our farm to create products for sale in our store, including tasty and easy to use mixes. In addition to our food products, we produce a line of dried flower arrangements, candles, and bath and body products. In 2018, we added new savory jellies, jams and vinegars to our food product line. We're extremely grateful to Tabitha Stroup, chef-proprietor at Friend in Cheeses, for partnership on these products. We expanded our enterprise to include sewing projects—such as upcycled market totes, eye pillows—and hand-crafted jewelry, providing additional training activities and work in the rainy season.

The store is the face of our value-added enterprise, which consists of our workshop, two retail stores, an online store and wholesale accounts.

In 2018, our Value-added Enterprise brought in 26% of our income.

Our feed 2 birds program is a powerful example of stacking functions, a permaculture concept that is at the root of every successful permaculture design. In the simplest terms, stacking functions means that every element in a design performs more than one function. In this case, a single contribution from a donor supports both trainee wages and the distribution of our organic produce to vulnerable neighbors. Instead of receiving handouts, trainees are growing organic produce for our community members in need.

Feed Two Birds Nonprofit Partners

In 2018, these agencies received three shares of organic produce each week during the 23 week harvest season

- 180/2020 Santa Cruz
- Coastanoa Continuation High School
- Housing and Urban Development - Veteran Affairs Supportive Housing
- Hospice of Santa Cruz County
- Mental Health Client Action Network
- Monarch Services
- River Street Shelter
- Santa Cruz AIDS Project
- Transition Age Youth

CSA: feed 2 birds

Here's how it works:

- 1 Donors contribute to the Feed 2 Birds Fund
- 2 Homeless Garden trainees, volunteers and community partners grow and harvest the fruits and vegetables
- 3 Boxes of produce are shared with vulnerable children, families, and seniors via local nonprofits
- 4 Our community is stronger, healthier, and more connected!

trainees

The Homeless Garden Project's trainees offer their skills and experience and acquire new skills in sustainable agriculture and social enterprise as they prepare to transition to jobs and housing. They gain ability to "build a home in the world" as the valuable individuals they truly are.

13,417

hours of paid job training completed

voices from the field

We offer here excerpts from talks trainees have given throughout the year. The complete text for each talk is on our blog at the link indicated below.

“ Valued and Valuable

I feel so much stronger now than I have before, and have future plans for myself that I know I can make happen now that I have such a strong support system. I have obtained a second job already and am working sometimes 14 hour days a few days a week, but I am determined to be indoors as soon as humanly possible. ”

“ As Unique as a Fingerprint

Everyone who has ended up homeless got there for different reasons that are as unique as a fingerprint. But the thing that is the same for all of them is the solution.

The solution to homelessness is PEOPLE. ”

Read more of Stacey's story 'As Unique as a Fingerprint,' on the Homeless Garden Project blog at <http://homelessgardenproject.org/blog/?p=1161>

“ Watching My Life Bloom

Arriving at HGP, I had a little flame of hope inside me. After being there, I started to form plans for my life... I was given the task of growing dahlias... I was dedicated to these flowers and I had no idea what they even looked like. I was in for a surprise! Out of all my hard work and patience bloomed the most beautiful flowers I have ever seen...

This was the first time in my life I'd ever seen the fruits of my labor. I see now what I can accomplish. ”

volunteers

Volunteering with HGP is a great way to get involved in the community, to help reduce homelessness and the stigma that surrounds it. In the process, our volunteers have opportunities to deepen their knowledge about sustainable agriculture and social enterprise as well.

In 2018

2,472

volunteers

95

volunteer groups representing:

15,474

volunteer hours

- Schools from the elementary to university level
- Driscoll's, Apple, Kaiser Permanente, Google
- Food Corps, CASFS Apprentices, FoodWhat!?, Food First, CCOF
- Hope Services, Avenues

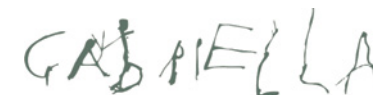

partners in commerce

Our growing list of partners in commerce now includes our 57 individual CSA members, our restaurant partners, and our new wholesale partner, New Leaf, as well as development partners such as Friends in Cheeses.

Alderwood Restaurant uses produce from HGP to create beautiful plates of food

leadership

HGP's leadership creates opportunities not only for the growth and health of our trainees, but for the advancement of our strategy for addressing homelessness in our community.
